Did you ever can a United States Savings Bond? Don't answer "no" too quickly because that's what millions of wise Americans are doing daily. By buying bonds regularly through the Payroll Savings Plan where they work or the Bond-a-Month Plan where they bank, they are preserving income for future nourishment. Savings Bonds grow in nutrition value to you and your family through the passage of time. In 10 years they will produce $4 in goodness for every $3 you store away today. Yes sir, the best canning you can do now is the canning of income in the form of Savings Bonds.

Lidice Is Reborn After Five Years

Village Gestapo Troopers Brutally Wiped Out Is To Have New Life.

LIDICE, CZECHOSLOVAKIA. — A group of British miners tapped a gray block of granite into place here as the cornerstone of a new Lidice. Five years ago this village was brutally wiped off the map by Gestapo troopers.

Of the old Lidice nothing now remains save a huge timber cross and a wreath of thorns marking the common grave into which the Nazis dumped the machine-gunned bodies of all the village men—about 178 in all — a few grass-covered foundation stones of a church and untold memories.

Most of the memories were here in the minds of 140 black-gowned women and a few quiet children, the only survivors of a village of 500 souls.

Ground Plowed Up.

After the men were shot, on that bitter June day in 1942, the women were sent to concentration camps, the children were scattered throughout Europe, the village was burned, the ruins bulldozed flat and then the ground was plowed under.

This was done because the Kladno district Gestapo, whose leaders later died on the gallows in Prague, said the village had harbored the assassins of Reinhard Heydrich, the German Reiche-protector whom the Czechs called "Der Henker," the hangman.

Several hundred persons besides the survivors assembled for the dedication ceremony in the grass-covered saddle between two hills where the old Lidice perished and the new one will be raised.

Mostly they were neighbors from Makotrasy, down the road, and brown-coal miners from Kladno.

Women Wept.

They stood near the great cross. Some of the women of Lidice sobbed. Others looked stoically at the cross. A few peered around as though trying to place where their homes had stood.

On a distant hillside they could see long, rough barracks that will house the brigade of volunteer workers who will help rebuild the town. Already a few gray-clad boys and girls in their teens and early 20s are on hand to start the job.

A mournful wind carried away most of the words of the speakers.

"It is not often that the dead and the living participate in the same ceremony," said Bernard Stross, who led the delegation of British miners which brought along a check for 30,375 pounds ($121,500) raised in a campaign to start the rebuilding project.

Then he tapped into place a stone marked "Zakladni kamen novych Lidice"—which means "Foundation stone of the new Lidice."

As he did so there was a heavy roll of thunder and then a downpour began. The eternal flame which was to be lighted in a black cylindrical holder beside the stone was left unlighted until a future time.

British Hunt 'Will o' Wisp' Fugitive Called Dangerous

MUNDFORD, ENGLAND. — Policemen and soldiers armed with guns and rifles hunted through the thickly wooded Norfolk moorland for a former Polish commando.

He was described by police as a "will o' the wisp, desperate and dangerous."

Quarry of the man hunt, officials said, was Stanislaw Zborowski, 24, said by military authorities to be the one-time leader of a bandit gang of Polish deserters in Italy.

He escaped from a Norfolk jail, where he was sentenced to nine months for stealing cigarettes.

He has exchanged shots with military and civilian posses three times since then, but has managed to keep ahead of his pursuers.

Police blamed him for breaking into more than a score of houses for food and clothing and for stealing at least six automobiles.

Fish Bites Woman!

Willie Wells was coming home from Seward's Creek the other evening with a string of trout, when a stern looking lady (visitor at the Boxwood Inn) stops him, and tells him a man his size could be better occupied than catching fish.

Willie tells her off real good-naturedly by saying: "Perhaps you're right, but if these fish had kept their mouths shut, they wouldn't be here." (At that, says Willie, laughing out loud, she looked just as if a fish had bit her!)

Blabbing mouths never cause anything but trouble. Nobody who knew the facts would ever criticize Willie's right to go fishing on his one day off—any more than they'd deny his right to come home to a mellow glass of beer.

From where I sit, the slower we are to criticize—and the quicker we are to recognize another's tastes, the better we'll get along together — whether those tastes apply to beer or fishing.

Hixburg

Hixburg, August 4.- After delivering inspiring sermons, Rev. Donald Carson, of Raleigh, N. C., closed the meeting at the Hixburg Presbyterian Church Friday evening. The church members were most appreciative for help in signing and other services given by members of other denominations. Especially were they grateful to Sears Hix, of Thomasville, N. C., for directing the choir and to Mrs. Donald Carson, for rendering soprano solos. Mrs. Carson's voice, which would be an attraction in any city choir, gave the congregation a rare musical treat.

Herman Sears and daughter, Sara, of High Point, N. C., and Mr. and Mrs. Guild, of Richmond, were the week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Sears.

Bowery Tires of Its Bums; Farm Colony Is Suggested

NEW YORK.—The Bowery is getting tired of its bums.

Through its Bowery improvement committee, the East Side chamber of commerce has suggested to Mayor William O'Dwyer that a city commission consider establishing a farm colony "somewhere upstate" to which the Bowery's chronic alcoholics would be sent for a cure.

"This action," said Wilfred B. Kirk, committee chairman, "would materially reduce the disgraceful condition on the Bowery, where the three-times-daily police pick-up of drunks seems like a continuous excursion."

Wearing Action of Water Cuts Topsoil Three Inches

WASHINGTON. — When John Smith and Miles Standish came to these shores, the topsoil averaged about nine inches in depth. Today, due to the ripping and wearing action of water and wind on unprotected land and to the removal of organic matter—the result of land abuse—top-soil averages about six inches in depth for the nation, as a whole. "In some places it is all gone," said Secretary of Agriculture Anderson.

Government Finds Vets Good Loan Risk

Volume of Defaults on Loans Has Been Creditable.

WASHINGTON. — The government is finding the war veteran a good business risk.

The ex-G.I.s who got loans from Veterans' administration to set up small businesses are generally doing very well.

A. G. Deane, chief of the agency's business loans division, said the government has had to pay only $799,000 in claims on veterans' loans it has guaranteed. This represents 1,196 claims out of a total of 70,000 business loans with a face value of 201 million dollars.

In addition to the outright failures, 1,079 other veteran borrowers have defaulted. Deane said, however, that some of the defaults may be partially satisfied.

Under the G.I. bill, VA began guaranteeing partial repayment of loans to veterans in September, 1944.

"The volume of defaults on loans has been small," said Deane. "The showing to date has been very creditable. The veteran business man has turned out to be a surprisingly good investment."

Highest rate of failures has been among veterans who became single operators of trucks. Deane believes this is partly because the men lacked administrative experience and partly because of faulty equipment.

Some veterans' groups have charged that ex-G.I. truckers have been "taken for a ride" by second-hand car dealers disposing of machines that were fit only for the junk pile.

Second highest business casualty rate was among operators of taverns, restaurants and night clubs. "With such enterprises," Deane remarked, "it seems to be feast or famine."

Crippled Plane Flies 800 Miles Over Ocean

HAMILTON, BERMUDA. — A crippled U. S. army superfortress with 18 officers and men made an 800-mile flight over the Atlantic on two engines and landed safely in the Azores islands after its crew was ready to bail out, reports from the islands said.

The plane was part of a flight of nine superfortresses returning from a 9,000-mile European training flight. Its mishap—first in the entire flight from Salina, Kas., to Britain and Germany—occurred while flying from the Azores to Bermuda.

Bullet Enters Knee In 1912, Comes Out 35 Years Later

CHICAGO.—It was 35 years ago, in 1912, when Mrs. Mary Pohl first noticed a twinge of pain just behind her left knee.

But, attributing it to the election of the first Democratic president since Grover Cleveland, she thought no more about it at the time. By 1920 the pain momentarily had disappeared.

At any rate, the pain kept coming and going until Mrs. Pohl, now 53, visited Dr. Edwin C. Jana in his office.

Dr. Jana probed about a bit, and came up with a .32-caliber bullet, lodged just beneath the skin.

"I do declare," said Mrs. Pohl. "Now I remember. When I was working as a domestic out in Oak Park that little girl I took care of was fooling with a pistol and it went off when I took it away from her. I thought the bullet had only grazed my leg. And that was 35 years ago!"

"Looks like that," said Dr. Jana. "You just walked that bullet right out to where I could get it. Here's the slug—want to keep it, maybe?"

Welsh Guard Drops Rifle At Royal Family Review

WINDSOR, ENGLAND.—A butter - fingered Welsh Guardsman dropped his rifle during a parade before the Royal family, thus joining in ignoring the guardsman who previously fell on his nose in the presence of royalty.

This jittery performance which shocked the glittering assemblage, occurred in the grand quadrangle of Windsor castle, where the king, queen and Princess Elizabeth received the colors of the second battalion of Welsh Guards. Royalty took no notice of the dropped rifle.

At the previous rehearsal for the trooping of the color before Buckingham palace, a member of the household guards fainted in the presence of the duke of Gloucester, the king's brother.

Calling Hogs to Lost Art, Farmers Lack Practice

OMAHA.—It seems the fine art of hog calling is bowing to "modern inventions."

At least that was the most common excuse given by losers in the annual hog calling contest here.

"My hogs eat out of self feeders. I was a little out of practice," was the complaint of many losers.

The winners, Mrs. Vern Lofgren of West Point, Neb., and Harold L. Madsen of Nebraska City, Neb., later went to New York City to demonstrate via a radio program just how fine a hog call can be.
